Practice Areas

Jun Wu specializes in criminal complaints, criminal defense, and handling civil-criminal overlapping cases. He provides clients with accurate and efficient legal services systematically.

He focuses on economic-related criminal complaints and defense, assisting natural persons and large enterprises in completing criminal complaint and defense tasks, particularly in handling special and assigned cases, including:

- Assisting a subsidiary of a Northeast oilfield in prosecuting its former general manager, resulting in conviction for the crime of duty encroachment.
- Assisting a well-known listed company in prosecuting its project manager, leading to conviction for the crime of duty encroachment.
- Representing a Chengdu Jinjiang District company in accusing its executives and related personnel of duty encroachment (involving over 200 property owners), resulting in criminal investigation of the suspects for duty encroachment.
- Providing specialized criminal risk prevention services for the chairman of a Sichuan state-owned investment company, successfully safeguarding his business operations.
- Conducting criminal defense for a Sichuan investment company involved in an illegal absorption of public deposits case, ultimately achieving a non-prosecution decision.
- Defending a private equity fund company suspected of fund-raising fraud.
- Assisting a leading insurance company in combating black-market activities.
- Supporting a Chengdu state-owned enterprise in anti-fraud efforts and recovery of misappropriated assets.
- Handling cases involving employees of a leading bank in telecom fraud.
- Assisting a commercial bank in combating loan fraud.
- Aiding a Chengdu district government in cracking down on fraudulent bankruptcy cases that harm public interests.
